Y., Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Flint and Battle Creek, Mich., Fort Wayne, Chicago, Indianapolis, Dayton, Akron, Columbus and Youngstown, Ohio, Pittsburg, Johnstown, Altoona, Harrisburg, Lancaster and Philadelphia, finishing at New York in time to see the world's series. In expressing regret he would not be able to attend the fair he predicted part of the world's baseball classic would be played in Chicago, an opinion not much shared in by Norway experts of the National Pastime. Local boys pick Pittsburg and New York as contenders.

It is estimated more than 45,000 people attended the 85th exhibition of the Oxford County Agricultural Society on Sept. 13, 14, 15.

The show went through without hitches in the weather. Tuesday was ideal, Wednesday opened fair and warmer but an overcast sky and a chill in the air before night seemed a bad omen for the next day. Rain commenced falling soon after the pageant in the evening. Heavy clouds Thursday morning soon disappeared and the last day went through strong but the attendance was smaller than usual for a three day show.

Racing was good with many low marks in several classes. Nearly every department was filled with exhibits, especially in the hall and cattle sheds. The automobile show where advanced models were on display attracted thousands and the demonstrators secured many prospects.

There was something doing every day and not a dull moment as the officials had a program arranged to interest all classes. The vaudeville and pageant Tuesday and Wednesday evenings attracted several thousand to the grounds and provided business for the midway. The night show idea put into force three years ago has taken the popular fancy. Whether fireworks or theatricals, it's all the same and the people attend to round out a perfect day.

For the first time in the history of this society, the governor of Maine was an official guest and with him came approximately 30,000 people to make the largest middle day attendance on record.

Governor Brewster an Honored Guest

First Time State Executive Is Entertained at the Fair

Governor Ralph O. Brewster was entertained as an official guest, Wednesday, this being the first time in 85 years that the state executive has been entertained by the Oxford County Society. Some 30,000 people were on the grounds for the occasion.

Governor and Mrs. Brewster and party arrived at the stand at 2:45 p. m., being escorted by State Police, the Norway-Paris Band and officials of the society. Capt. Harry L. Twitchell of Co. C 103rd Infantry was special aid. Perley F. Ripley of South Paris, a trustee, was master of ceremonies for the day.

The party, as they alighted from automobiles at the wire was greeted by President L. E. McIntire and Secretary William O. Frothingham, who escorted the guests to seats in a box especially decorated for the occasion. The Governor spoke briefly, afterward watched the races and vaudeville entertainment with interest.

Occupying boxes near the Governor were A. W. Weston, vice president of the fair association, Chas. W. Bowker, Arthur G. Hayes, W. E. Penley, Stanley M. Wheeler, Perley F. Ripley, Col. Albert J. Stearns, Donald Mason, Mrs. L. L. Mason, Stephen O. Jellerson, Dr. D. M. Stewart, Bertrand G. McIntire, Walter L. Gray, Donald B. Partridge, Fred L. Edwards of Bethel, Hiram W. Ricker of Poland Spring, Arthur G. Staples of Lewiston, County Attorney William Flanagan of Rumford, Walter Foss and Arthur Landry of Rumford, Governor and Mrs. Brewster, and the Governor's Secretary, Lieut. Carl E. Morrison. Many of the wives accompanied their husbands.

After the races, Governor Brewster visited all departments, in company with Col. A. J. Stearns and expressed his pleasure at the neat appearance of the grounds and high quality of exhibits. He was particularly interested in the cattle.

Picked Up Here and There

Sights and a Multitude of Things Found Within the Gates

The Tuesday evening entertainment around the grand stand was held up some thirty minutes while waiting for lights. They were very dim on one circuit but the linemen working under a spot light strung more wire and soon had the place bright as one could wish.

George Levasseur, the strong man in the vaudeville program is following the fairs accompanied by his wife and two children. The pride of the family is Arthur, who first saw light six weeks ago and if plans do not fail, he will follow in the footsteps of his father. They travel in an auto which is their parlor, sitting room and sleeping quarters.

Two women, collecting funds on the grounds for suffering humanity, approached George "Shavey" Noyes of Norway for a donation. "What's this for," asked Shavey. "To buy clothing for," asked Shavey. "To buy clothing for the heathen in foreign lands," was the reply. "Well here goes a nickel," he remarked as the coin slipped into the can; he continued: "Let's hope some of it is spent in America where poor women are roaming with practically nothing on their backs."

Horace E. Kimball of Norway for sixteen years one of the special police near the main entrance is off duty this year. He has a lame foot and was unable to handle traffic.

"Lime" Winslow of Bethel had two ponies and one "jack" for children to ride. He was located in a lane inside the track. The outfit came from Peaks Island where they provided amusement the past summer.

Mrs. L. L. Mason, South Paris provided the geraniums and other decorations that were used in the decorations around the judges' stand and in front of the box occupied by Governor Brewster and staff.

West Paris defeated South Paris Tuesday forenoon with a score of 4-1. The game was close and on a 2-1 basis until something started in the ninth that let in two West Paris runs.

Horse Breaks Leg

Lee S., Up in Front, Snaps Bone and Is Shot on Track

The closing heat of the 2:13 trot and pace on the first day of the fair ended in the death of Lee S., chestnut gelding, owned by Dr. R. C. Pletts of Brunswick, with Mason in the sulky. Rounding the turn on the home stretch, the gelding snapped a small bone in the left hind leg and fell, as Northern Mac, driven by Frank Fox, nosed by and went into the lead for the heat and race.

Trainers from the Pletts stable hurried onto the track and after a conference with the owner, it was decided to kill the horse.

Lee S., had a mark of 2:14, made one year ago on the third day of the Norway fair and was driven by Frank Fox. The entry won last year's race in straight heats, after losing the first heat to Northern Silk, driven by Jack Carney, who went the mile in 2.13 1-4.

Wednesday, patrons also saw a near tragedy in the 2.20 pace, when Ben Evans, bay gelding, driven by Chappelle, went over the inside fence near the first quarter pole. It was in the first heat, with eight starters when an axle on the sulky snapped. With one end of the rod dragging on the ground, Chappelle, who was hugging the fence, got safely out of the way of the field following and the horse hurdled the top rail of the fence.

Chappelle was thrown under the broken sulky, but he was uninjured. The horse, a boy gelding, was lead across the field to the stable and was found to be without a scratch.

Automobile Increase

G. E. Leighton of Gilead attended the fair Wednesday. Twenty-two years ago he attended with a 1 cylinder Cadillac car. There were only four cars on the grounds—3 Cadillacs and 1 Maxwell which is some contrast to today. In looking over an account of the fair of 22 years ago we find only one mention of automobiles in the whole account and that reads as follows: "Among the automobiles at the fair was the large touring car owned by Edward L. Parris of New York City. The machine was driven here by his son, Edward Parris, Jr." We wonder if this was the Maxwell.

September Wedding

RUSSELL-HENLEY

Two Well-Known Norway Young People Married at Bride's Home

A very pretty fall wedding of interest to people in this vicinity occurred Sunday afternoon, Sept. 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Henley, North Waterford, when their daughter, Miss Mildred Esther, was united in marriage with Clyde Andrew Russell of Norway. The ceremony was performed on the lawn which was decorated with flowers from the garden, the color scheme being in pink and white. The bridal couple stood beneath an archway. Mrs. E. C. Henley and Miss Ruth Russell were in charge of the decorations. The Rev. Pliny A. Allen, pastor of the Norway Universalist church officiated and used the double ring service. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Ben Hosmer, sister of the bride. The best man was Harry Walker of Norway; the maid of honor, Miss Stella Jackman of Westboro, Mass., cousin of the bride; and the two bridesmaids, Miss Arline A. Henley, Topsham, sister of the bride and Miss Ruth P. Russell, Norway, sister of the groom. The flower bearers were little Elaine Hosmer, of Norway, niece of the bride, and Robert Jackman of Westboro, her cousin.

The bride's gown was white georgette crepe with trimmings of silver and her veil of tulle was caught cap shape with orange blossoms. She carried pink and white rosebuds. The gown of the maid of honor was pale lemon crepe de chine and the bridesmaids, were one blue and the other pink silk. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids carried sweet peas and snap-dragons. The flower girl wore pink georgette.

The gift of the groom to the bride was a string of pearls, and to the best man, initial cuff links. The bride gave her maid of honor, a bangle bracelet, and compacts to the bridesmaids. Miss Arline Henley was in charge of the guest book and Muss Ruth Russell of the gift room. Many beautiful and useful gifts have been presented.

An informal reception followed the wedding and in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Henley and Mrs. Rowena Kilgore. Refreshments were served with the Misses Ruth Jackman, Arline Henley and Margaret Russell serving. Vocal selections were rendered by "The Henley Twins." Some seventy guests were present and among those from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. George E. Jackman and family from Westboro, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. George Fogg and family of Standish, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hosmer and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hosmer of Norway, Mrs. Heath and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Brackett and family of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell left for a wedding trip to parts unknown, the bride traveling in a gown of pale pink silk, with blue coat and hat to match. They will be at home in Norway after Sept. 18.

He is employed as a mechanic by Ripley & Fletcher at South Paris. He is a member of the First Universalist church of Norway. Mr. and Mrs. Russell are receivinig congratulations from a host of friends.

NORWAY NURSING SERVICE AT OXFORD COUNTY FAIR

The House of Health and House of Woe and other features of the exhibit were planned to give an idea of some of the aims of the local nursing service. They have proven very attractive to many visitors.

The Witch House of Woe was stucco tea and coffee, the roof spotted with candies, and candy formed the door steps, rich cake the walk with gate posts of green bananas, especially green to emphasize that the greenness is the objection. The trim for the windows and door is jelly beans and frankfurters forming the open doors. Pickles and lollypops figured also. This grouping though attractive to the eye represents the articles that satisfy the appetite and stand in the way of useful diet at regular meal time, often resulting in undernourished children.

The Fairy House of Health is flanked with fresh fruit and vegetables and shingled with plain nutritious crackers. The stucco is of oatmeal with a trim of raisins. Potatoes topped with prunes form the gate posts from which the path of cornmeal, bordered with beans, leads to the house of health with its open doors of bread, well toasted. Over the doorway, hovers the health fairy. To her left is the fountain of youth—milk, and on her right the maypole epitomizers—joyous outdoor play. The child on the pathway shows the type of health and vigor that should result from the use of simple nutritious diet and sufficient rest. The posters tell their own story emphasizing the interest of the nursing service in promotion of health—health education, and nursing care of the sick. So small an exhibit cannot be exhaustive in depicting the content of the service.

COMMUNITY NURSE NOTES

Mrs. Theresa R. Andersan, supervising nurse of the Maine Public Health Association, visited Miss Davis, the local Community Nurse, this week, and together they outlined the school nursing program for the approval and cooperation of the teachers. Individual inspection of the school children will be done as soon as a schedule can be arranged.

Class room inspection will be made periodically. The work will be done entirely in a spirit of helping toward health for the individual child and for his associates. Where defects exist that may be corrected, the parents' interest and co-operation will be sought as will they be also in efforts to establish habits of healthy living.

Mrs. Abbott On European Tour

Mrs. Bertha S. Abbott, executive committeewoman for the second Maine District of the American Legion Auxiliary, went to Boston, Thursday, leaving on the Scythia, the next day to attend the Legion Convention in Paris, France. She will also visit other places in Europe before returning home about October 8th.

Dances at the Legion Home Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings were largely attended. Music was furnished by the Bluebird Serenaders. A good sum was realized by the American Legion boys who held the dances. The refreshment booth carried on by the auxiliary was well patronized.

Mrs. Fred D. Hosmer was in Portland for the day Thursday.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

In a letter from Mrs. George Parris Haley from Seattle, Washington, she says: I take the opportunity to mention that the Advertiser is greatly enjoyed by my husband, a former Maine resident and —as he never fails to specifically mention—an Oxford Bear."

George Lachance, who repairs watches, brought to the office a calendar watch that tells the whole story. It shows the time, day of week, date and month, besides the phases of the moon. The daily changes are made automatically at midnight, but the change of month is up to the individual, who must work a little wheel near the ring.

John D. Cole of Jamaica Plain, Mass., made his annual call at the office. He is in town for three weeks' vacation and to attend the fair. He is visiting his mother, Mrs. William Cole and brothers and sister. He was accompanied by Mrs. Marguerite R. Patten, of Mt. Pleasant, Boston, who is with Mrs. William Hall for three weeks.

George Tyner of Pigeon Hill, Oxford, dropped in Saturday and left a job of printing for the Community fair to be held at the Grange Hall at Welchville, Saturday, September 24. They plan for a general display in the hall, a dinner, horse pulling, a midway, and a dance in the evening. A. B. Grover is in charge of the horse pulling classes with 50 bushel of oats for prizes.

John Prince found a horse blanket on Water Street, Friday afternoon and added it to our museum. Owner will find it parked in our office.

James Cohan, representative of the Acme Smelting Company of Massachusetts, called Friday and talked about metals and printing. He is having his first trip in Maine and is more than delighted with the country. In two weeks he has motored over 1262 miles of Maine roads while visiting every printing office using linotype metal. The traveler also found many interesting things in the White Mountains of New Hampshire and has taken home a good impression of this corner of New England.

George W. Cushman of Bryant's Pond, had us print some pound size butter paper for him. Mr. Cushman has several cows and makes a little butter and disposes of the surplus at the Turner Center Creamery.

Clayton S. McIntire of East Waterford, was in Monday for the letter paper and envelopes we had printed for L. E. McIntire & Son. Mr. McIntire is at the County Fair as usual with some twenty-two head of cattle. Clayton said the County Fair was all the fair they could attend as they could not leave home for a longer time at this busy season of the year. "Greenfields" is one of the largest up-to-date farms in Oxford County and it means a good deal for all hands to pull out and leave.

Stephen Kimball of Lovell was over Wednesday and extended his subscription to the Advertiser. He said it tired him to go to the fair for all day so thought he would try part of the day instead.

Edgar Spaulding of Harrison and Florida was in to get the copy of the story of his trip we printed a while ago. Mr. Spaulding is the photographer at Harrison during the summer. He has decided to go back to Florida this winter and plans to start in a few weeks but will return next summer to his old stand at Harrison.

W. H. Eastman of East Sumner was here recently and subscribed for the Advertiser. Mr. Eastman and members of the family were formerly correspondents for this paper and occasionally now Mr. Eastman sends in items which are always acceptable.

William M. Sanborn of Stow, sent in $2.00 for his paper and incidentally wrote, "Back me for the Advertiser! Can't seem to get through this long Winter without it. Old Bill."

Harry M. Goodwin is advertising his poultry by means of a blotter, on which is printed a picture of his 10,000 Egg Blue Hen Mammoth incubator in red and black, a neat and attractive blotter that one would keep and use.

Raymond Harmon of Portland, who exhibited the Marmon at the Fair, was in Wednesday for some business cards. He said he started with a supply but they were given out the first day.

A. G. McNaughton, who is located in this vicinity, employed in research work for the General Electric Co., was in Thursday and inquiring for the fishing editor. On several previous visits he has inspected the collection of arrow heads, etc., in the office and he says there are some there he wants and feels he must have for several reasons. We told him he better come in one day when the fihing editor return and talk it over. He says there are several of the Ten Commandments he is not anxious to break, but fears he may if he cannot get hold of those specimens.

Fall is here and with it a desire to buy and sell—look over your attic or any other storage place and turn those things useless to you into money. The Intelligence Column on Page 4, will do the work. Read it and see what others have for sale or want to buy.

WE MISS YOU, DARLING

By Mrs. Dana E. McAllister, Lovell, Me.

We just miss you Sylvia darling
Miss you night and day.
We miss the sweetness of your voice,
We miss your loving ways
Oh! how I miss the sweetest word
You ever said to me,
That called me to you, in your play,
A toy or fun to see.
If I could only hear again
"Mamma," in your dear sweet voice,
My sorrow would turn to pleasure,
My stricken heart rejoice.
Oh, the stillness that surrounds me,
How I harken dear to hear
That one word, that always called me
And assured me you were near.
I cannot help the tears that fall,
The sorrow in my heart,
The days that lengthen into years
God's plan that we must part.
But we are longing for the time,
When, "in his mercy" he will give
The blessing that, "we'll meet again,"
And in His kingdom we shall live.
To little children here on earth
Our Saviors love was given,
"Suffer little children to come unto me,
For of such is the kingdom of heaven,"
And on that resurrection morn,
At the end of lonesome years,
May we meet again in heaven,
Where He'll wipe away our tears.

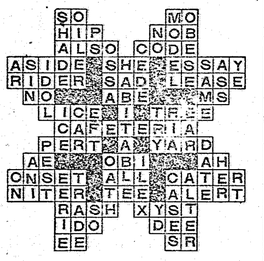
Solution to Last Week's Puzzle



WEST STONEHAM

Gammon Family Reunion

The Gammon family reunion was held at the old homestead in W. Stoneham, Sept. 11; on account of the weather lunch was served indoors. Sixty-one people partook of the bountiful repast. In the afternoon the weather cleared and many present visited the family cemetery on the old McAllister farm in the Back District. Later everyone went to the old place on the hill and a short business meeting was held.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gammon, West Paris; Miss Gusta Tracy, Melrose, Mass.; Mrs. Merlene Hayden, Norway; Mrs. Myrtle Richardson, Lynn, Mass.; Mrs. Bertha Keniston, Lovell; Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKeen and daughter, Hester, and Donald Andrews, North Lovell; Mrs. Knox Bickford and three children, Norway; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Harriman, Lovell; Mr. and Mrs. John. Grover and four children, Mr. and Mrs. Grover own and live on the old home place; Mr. and Mrs. Urshal Gammon and five children, Norway; Warren Gammon, Lovell; Willis McAllister, North Lovell; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gammon and three children, Rumford; Mr. and Mrs. Max Eastman and four children of Lovell; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilberger and daughter, Norma, of Norway: Mr. and Mrs. Zacheus McAllister of West Lovell; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett and Clayton Gammon, South Paris; Miss Grace Newton, Norway; Dayton Whitman, Norway. It was a fine day for all present. Adjourned to 1928. Original poem:

The sun shines down as it used to do,
Under the sky so bright and blue,
The view from the hill, and Sunset Rock,
Are just the same as when
Grandma and Grandpa bought
The spot where we sit and take our ease,
And look at the beautiful lake and trees,
But times are different for us these days,
We've outgrown many old-fashioned ways.
What would they say if they could know
The way we came, the way we'll go?
Autos were unknown in their day
But they were as happy in their way,
With less of hustle, less of care
I sometimes wish we could go back there!
But, perhaps next year we'll come by air.

Written and read by Bertha Keniston.

The Scribners' Camping Trip

Through New York State

This year when the "Wanderlust" called us, we packed our "grub" and tents and started with no particular tour in mind. However we directed our cars toward the White Mountains and hence to Vermont, camping in Middlesex the first night. The evening was spent in mapping out our trip, finally deciding on going to Niagara Falls. Jesse, Bourden and Edward Scribner had been there before but Mrs. Nellie, Mary Scribner and Earle Little had never been to Niagara. During the first night some four footed creature, probably a large dog, relieved us of our large piece of bacon. So take our advice. Put it under lock and key.

Our second day took us to Burlington and across Lake Champlain by ferry to Port Douglass, from there through the Adirondack Forest Reserve in which we saw a beautiful large doe. We saw many T. B. sanitariums high up on the mountains. The winding road led us through beautiful woods and around pretty lakes, nestled like diamonds in emerald. We camped in Santa Clara, by an old deserted tenament settlement.

On Sunday, the third day, we saw many nice apple orchards and farms. The roads were excellent and often cement. During the day we saw a Kentucky car with a wheel off, and at night the same car drove in the same camp ground and camped beside us at Williamson. The same party was on the camp ground at Niagara Falls the next night. During the night a troop of cavalry horses passed and the loons kept up a continual squawk on Lake Ontario.

The fourth day on going through Rochester and Buffalo, we noticed the silent policemen were suspended on wires in the center of the street about ten feet from the ground.

We drove to the Niagara Camp Ground where the City of Niagara has set aside 40 acres of land for campers and has erected a large stone building in which are sanitary toilets, shower baths and a large fountain of warm water to wash in. Also there is a first aid nurse on duty all the time whose services can be obtained for the sum of ten cents. They charge 25c per person for the ground. That night there were 500 cars and about 2000 people on the ground. Strange to say this ground was one of the quietest we were ever on.

Tuesday, the fifth day, we looked around Niagara Falls, going around the Great Gorge on both the Canadian and American sides, and visiting the Whirlpool. We went through one of the large Canadian electric power houses which are above the falls. The great dynamos in ceaseless action were indeed an awful sight.

We returned to Buffalo to go on South. Before we finally found our way out of the city we decided that Buffalo was a large city. Because so many streets were being repaired we could not follow the directions in the Green Book. Bad weather overtook us that night and we stayed at a hotel in Warsaw for the night.

Wednesday we went southeast toward the Pennsylvania line, passing many tobacco fields. We appreciated our own blankets that night and the campfire certainly felt good. We camped near Binghampton.

Thursday started off fine, but after a few hours run we stopped at a fruit stand and bought some bananas. Now readers, throw your banana peelings where you wish—don't wait till you pass an unsightly place, for when Jesse Scribner threw one out his car left the road and plunged down about ten feet from the road in a dry brook. Mr. and Mrs. Bourden Scribner were the only ones even bumped. Mrs. Scribner went through the windshield, but her large felt hat prevented her getting cut. Mr. Scribner was thrown ahead, breaking his nose on the dashboard and giving his neck a severe wrench. A wrecking car soon got the car on the highway again and we stopped in Bainbridge for repairs, going on to Sidney to have a new windshield cut. We secured rooms for Mr. and Mrs. Scribner, the rest of the party camping just outside Unadilla.

Friday we went on through the Catskill Mountains to Kingston where we happened to stop in front of an old stone house where the Senate of the State of New York was held in 1777, and after the burning of Kingston, the next year, it was for several years used as an academy. We crossed the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie then went northeast to Canaan, Connecticut to camp. During the day we saw more tobacco fields which were screened in, probably producing a fine grade of tobacco.

Saturday was certainly a very rainy day, thus causing us a late start. We went around the city of Hartford, Conn., to Springfield, Worcester, Waltham, Medford, and on to the Portland road. We drove through home, it being 100 rainy and foggy a night to camp comfortably. We reached home about 3.30 Sunday morning. In spite of accidents we all, even the injured ones, called it a successful trip and an enjoyable one.

FRYEBURG—FISH STREET

Mrs. Ellen Smart and Florence Baker visited Mrs. Avis Stearns and her mother at West Lovell, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Susan Baker and daughter, Evelyn, spent one day at W. E. Benson's last week.

Clarence Kimball had the misfortune to injure his knee on the oat reaper, and is able to get around only by using crutches, which we hope will only be for a short time.

Threshing oats is the chief business at Maple Rock Farm this past week.

Corn picking has begun in this section. These cold nights make one wish the corn was all canned.

Miss Esther Atkins arrived at Elmer Baker's, Monday, where she will board while teaching the Center school.

Esther Baker was home over the week end from Cook's Mills and reports a very pleasant school week with a nice place to board.

Mrs. Cochran and David Bradley attended the wedding on Baldface Mountain, September 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Baker and Mrs. Mabel Charles are working in the Fryeburg canning factory.

EAST SUMNER

Walter A. Russell and family have moved to South Paris. He has sold his stand at East Sumner to Harry L. Russell, who will soon occupy it.

Tolman B. Bonney has opened a public garage in the building just west of Gesner's blacksmith shop.

Mrs. Roger Eastman has been visited by her mother, Mrs. Charles Schonland, of Portland, and her sister, Mrs. Frieda Read.

Merrick H. Osgood of Woburn, Mass., has been in his native town of Hartford and in East Sumner, calling on friends. He was employed on the train service of the Rumford Falls railroad branch in its early days.

W. H. Eastman was on busines at Bridgton a few days last week. He attended grange and church in his old town of Sweden.

Someone at the Norway-Paris fair, Wednesday, remarked that Sumner must look lonesome that day, but there were plenty of stay-at-homes to make a good showing at the Circle dinner.

Bills are out for the Union Grange Fair at East Sumner, October 6.

HEBRON

Ruth Bearce Home from Hospital—Auto Accident at the Three Corners.

Ruth Bearce arrived home Wednesday of last week, from the hospital, where she submitted to an operation recently. She is able to be down stairs but does not get around much yet.

Rachel Bearce spent the day, Saturday, at Alton Hibbs'. She went to Bethel, Monday, where she attends Gould Academy.

There was an auto accident, Thursday of last week, at the three corners on the Hebron road near Ernest Gurney's. Harold Pratt and Sylvester Pratt were going toward Hebron Academy in a Buick when they met Charles Sawyer, his hired man, and Bert Davenport in a Ford coupe bound for West Minot. Because of the stone wall and bushes, neither saw the other in time to stop. The two came together head on, so hard it required a pair of horses to pull them apart. The occupants of the Buick were not hurt, but the others were badly cut about the head and arms by the glass, all of the windows in the coupe being broken. Bert Davenport was thrown through the door and was unconscious for half an hour, but suffered no serious consequences. Both cars were badly broken up. Howard Glover carried Harold and Sylvester Pratt to Buckfield, their destination, after the accident.

Sourdnahunk Lake, Maine Sixty Miles in Woods

From Our Special Reporter Who Tries To Get Living by Fishing and Telling of it

Seven days have passed since my last letter. I am now at Sourdnahunk Lake where Charles Daicey & Son have camps, 13 of them. They are filled with ambitious cranks, myself included, but before telling of them I'll relate further my experience at Moosehead Lake. Regardless of the mental torture it will bring Elgin Greenleaf I must tell the truth, viz:

Seven days, seven days and not a fish. John Owen's refrain is: Eight days, eight days and nary a one.

It would have been the same with me but I did not want to break his record so moved here at the end of seven days, arriving Thursday the 8th. The journey down the lake and the night stop among the rumbling freight trains at the Junction is without incident worthy of mention.

A call on Rev. A. G. Hempstead, editor of the Northern and Social Service Manager of the Great Northern Paper Co., was made. We are greatly interested in the work being done by him and his assistants among whom is Stanley Foss Bartlett, formerly of Norway. We also met him and he wishes to be remembered to his Oxford County friends. He likes the work and is busy all the time. Its more to his liking than selling dress goods and ribbons even for so good a man as Zeb Merchant of Norway. He has attended a summer art school and is making "worth while drawings" on paper and the future looks bright.

A punctured tire caused a half hour delay in reaching Sourdnahunk stream and the buck-board. John Jones, the old driver, has been replaced by Jack Johnson. John married the kitchen girl and has gone driving a two-horse team for the Great Northern fire patrol. Their home is at Millinocket or in some other wilderness.

The ride in was made in 4 minutes less than two hours. The last 2 miles in a canoe with Arnold and Walter paddling. Head wind and big waves were encountered.

A big camp 60x90, 1 1-2 stories, is being built of logs. Some structure. It will be ready for occupancy in the spring.

Inside of a minute's fishing I hooked a trout. Fair sized one and it was returned alive to the water for luck. Two hours of casting followed, with two trout and one was killed and cooked for supper.

Up to date 18 have been taken and two killed. The average is a little better than one trout per hour's casting. Have fished 17 hours and got 18 fish. Is it worth while? I won't say.

The camps are filled—30 people here or at least that number was counted at breakfast this morning (Sept. 11). Two parties, one of six and the other of four, were turned away last night. The party of six are to stop at Yoke's camps, near Kokajo until Monday, when they can be accommodated here. This shows the attraction of a place where trout come to the fly.

The fishing is said to be good in Sourdnahunk from the time the ice is out until the closed season comes. How many years the water can stand the constant draft on the fish is unknown.

There are many ponds in the immediate vicinity and it will be many years before they are fished out. Moose and deer are in evidence.

Several of the farmers live near Dwelly Pond and are seen by most anyone who is willing to take a three mile tramp over a fairly good woods road. Mrs. Twitchell has been frightened out of going there by the wild stories told by Elgin Greenleaf. He claims moose will attack women folks at this time of year. It is a story only. If you will let the moose alone, they will not trouble you. Thus say the guides. Mr. Greenleaf threw tin pails and rocks at the bull that drove him to cover many years ago. He admits it. Of course the moose resented such treatment and was justified in charging on him.

The gardener's efforts have been pretty near fruitless. Too many deer. They have eaten up everything but the grindstone and the potatoes. Surely the deer are plenty. Some of them are friendly, too. They will visit your tent when you are gone and muss up your provisions and take what they want. Whether these deer, like some rabbits I have heard of, will bite you, I know not.

Walter and I have moved from Camp No. 1 to "Winter Quarters," where there is a big room with two kinds of stoves with two beds down stairs and one up. It sets on high land and overlooks the settlement. We have all the conveniences for housekeeping including two cats and a sewing machine. Maybe we are located for the winter.

We are at the top-of-the-world and can look down on the big range of mountain at the south. If you doubt it, look up the map and see how the water runs.

In my last letter I spoke of being disturbed by an aeroplane. While writing the machine was passing over Sugar Island and was on its last journey. A few hours later it fell into the waters of Cocklegomac (phonetic spelling) and two of its occupants drowned: George Maxim and Amos Thibodeau, Jr. The third had on a cork jacket and got ashore. This is the second flying outfit lost this season.

Possibly you would like to know where Phoenix Camps are located. They are in that part of Maine which is 65 miles northwest of Greenville; 18 miles north of the West Branch of the Penobscot; 44 miles northwest of Millinocket, and 53 miles west of Patten. Roads lead from places named. Leave your automobiles in the settlement and walk and paddle on all except from Greenville. On that route you can come with a car to within 5 miles and Charles Daice—'s team will take you and your baggage here.

Telephone Daicey for the buck board to meet you at the Junction.—Sanborn.

NORWAY LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Healy and daughter, Frances, motored to Portland, Wednesday, to get the other little daughter, Mary, who had been visiting relatives for a few days.

V. L. Partridge is having a vacation.

Alfred and Perley Snow were called to Conway, Tuesday, to attend the funeral of their grandfather.

Mrs. John Wood has been sick this week.

Sad Mistake

"What has become of that crack salesman you had in here?" asked a friend of the manager of Geek & Son, dealers in exclusive ladies' ready-to-wear. "I had to fire him," the manager replied. "He sold four of Solomon's wives an identical model of gown, and told each of them that there positively wasn't another one like it in existence."

Fair Ground Side Lights

Band Furnished Excellent Music—Attractions Found at Random

Norway-Paris Band furnished excellent music day and night. Gustav Heim of New York was director and assisted in the noon concerts by Frank Knapp of Portland. The band started rehearsals recently after a lapse of several months and with the help of Prof. Heim, developed rapidly. Open air concerts during the month of August delighted a large gathering each week.

Highway Police George Wood, Eugene Stevens and Charles E. Patten directed traffic on the State road at the main gate. There was no congestion and cars moved with practically no hold-up.

A. W. Walker & Son had their agricultural display in a tent next the auto exhibit. About everything a progressive farmer needed was there and represented the Deering-McCormick line. There were kerosene engines, plows, cultivators and many new implements never shown here before. A Fairbanks-Morse farm lighting plant was given a practical demonstration. George Skinner, the superintendent, Cecil Tyler and several representatives of the manufacturers were on hand to furnish information.

Ralph R. Butts, South Paris, furnished spring water without money and without price on the mid-way. He demonstrated a Duro pumping outfit and lifted water from a spring over the bank to a bubble fountain. It made a hit with the thirsty.

Charles W. Bowker, agent for the Good Roads Machinery had a number of road makers and graders, the kind used in many Oxford County towns.

John Abbott was night watchman on the grounds and experienced very little trouble. When the late hour arrived for hitting the hay, he spoke the word and all obeyed. "Not much like the old days before electric lights and prohibition," he remarked. Perhaps the absence of the girlie shows that attracted a bunch of wild sheiks may have a lot to do with it.

Arthur Buck was marshal in the Cattle Department as in years past. Walter Denniscon was added to the ticket office force Wednesday.

The Shakers were represented on the grounds Wednesday. Two women wearing poke bonnets and the severe gray gowns, dating back in style to many generations, were a pronounced contrast to modern fashion plates. Strange why long skirts attract attention. Girls if you want the men to stare, wear a gown down to your heels. The abbreviated kind has long since lost its thrill-getter.

Shaw's Orchestra entertained in the grand stand, Wednesday, and alternated with the Norway-Paris Band. This added attraction was provided by Mrs. Leslie L. Mason of South Paris, for the entertainment of patrons seated some distance from the regular music. The orchestras program was composed almost entirely of dance numbers and national airs.

In spite of modern thrills and novelties the hand organ man and monkey held the crowd. Nothing much about the music that charmed, but the antics of "somebody's relative" held the attention and got the coin. Children from six to sixty laughed at the funny stuff put over by "de monk." Not a rod away was a human statistical machine grinding out education to a mere handful of dyspeptic listeners. Funny, isn't it?

Automobiles were parked inside the track and nearly filled that space on Wednesday. Three thousand cars were on the grounds that day. Outside on Paris and Fair streets 700 were parked in door yards and along the roadside.

EAST OXFORD

Mrs. William E. Morse and Mrs. Annie Kitternbiel visited Mrs. Bertha Turner at South Paris, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Sands, Arthur M. Thayer, Charles M. Hall of Rangeley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Healy and daughter, Frances of Norway Lake and Mary A. Stone of Auburn went to Lisbon Falls Sunday and spent the day with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Hall.

Arthur M. Thayer is at work in the corn shop at South Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Caldwell and family enjoyed a trip to Aroostook County last week.

Mrs. William E. Morse is entertaining her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Marston and her uncle, Oscar Allen of Hartford this week.

MANNERS OF CAMPERS

Many of the people who camp along the roads in summer have something to learn before they can be considered desirable citizens.

Those who litter up beautiful rural scenes with their wrecched rubbish act as if they lived in a pig pen at home. And those who set the forests afire with their camp fires do not deserve to have the possession of any vehicle with a greater range than a wheelbarrow.

Good manners will pay under any circumstances. These campers are the guests of the country folks along the way. guests do not commonly proceed to destroy the furniture and throw their waste around the parlor.

CARE OF CHILDREN'S TEETH

"Take your child to the dentist as soon as each new tooth appears" says the Division of Dental Hygiene of the State Department of Health. "Eighty-five percent. of all molar teeth come through the gums with cracks or fissures in their surfaces. These cracks or fissures are the result of imperfect development of the enamel while it is growing. They never repair themselves nor can any amount of brushing with a tooth brush keep them clean because they are nearly always smaller than the bristle of a toothbrush. Food almost immediately packs into these cracks and decomposes, causing decay of the tooth itself. This is especially true of the so-called 'Six Year Molars' which normally have several and particularly deep crevices on their chewing surfaces. Every chew pushes a little more food into the cracks."

"The only method of preventing the loss of the teeth is to take the child to the dentist as soon as a molar tooth erupts and regularly after that for inspection, every three months. Have the fissures filled as soon as they appear."

HEAT EXPANDS AND COLD CONTRACTS

Don't exert much strength in screwing a spark plug so tightly into a hot motor. When the engine cools the cylinder metal will contract, making it extremely difficult to remove the plug when necessary.

HISTORIAN RECALLS NORWAY SPORTING EVENT OF 40 YEARS AGO

D. CROMMETT CLARK, WHO WON JUMP CONTEST NAMES OTHERS WHO WERE IN COMPETITION—THOSE NOW LIVING LOCATED IN MANY PLACES—FEW HERE TO ATTEND FAIR.

Winter Hill, Mass., September 8, 1927.

Gentlemen: As feared, I do not now expect to be at Norway on September 12—next Monday, but I certainly wish you a merry reunion with boyhood acquaintances. It would be good indeed to meet with that bunch of boys again. I recall vividly that evening, for it was my first away from home "on my own" and everything seems indelibly stamped on my memory. Forty years dim many memories, but not that.

The jumping was very interesting to me. We did no measuring, just chalked a place to toe the mark, and tried to see what boy could make the farthest from that mark in one leap. The winner was a youngster named Adams who came from somewhere up country and was undertaking to learn to be a shoe magnate in B. F. Spinney's shop. He was a lofty, angular, skinny chap who got homesick and went back to the tall timbers after only a very few weeks. "Bunny" Rines had him in tow about the same way that Reuben Eastman had me. I lasted longer, which may have been a consolation for I was only second in the jumping match, and of course, after Adams disappeared from town I was the best jumper in that particular group of boys.

I remember that Scott Saunders went past. He was older and bigger than any of the group. Some one invited him to jump and he announced that it wouldn't be fair for a grown-up man to jump against the boys, so we witnessed no exhibition of his leaping powers. Reuben didn't like Saunders, and that was probably the only opportunity to give me an introduction which was passed up that evening.

The boys were about fourteen to twenty years old, and maybe as many as thirty took part in the jumping match, for the crowd at the corner by the Prince Sisters' store—not Phinney's but a bit later than Phinney's—was continually undergoing a shift of personnel as the boys moved about the village in every direction on a warm evening in the early autumn. Harry Jones—peace to his lovable soul—did not jump, neither did Ed Cole or Fred Cummings.

It just comes to me that a certain boy or youth, called "Old Cal"—not Coolidge—was third in the jumping. If he could have brought both feet nearer together as he landed, he might have been first, for the rear heel mark was the one that counted in the reckoning. His heels must have struck six or seven inches apart, and the rear was just behind mine while the front was way ahead of the front mark of either Adams or myself. I think that my good mark in the jump must have been the reason for lingering, so that I might know if any of the late comers could outjump me.

One boy I cannot seem to name, yet have a great curiosity as to what became of him. He was a hatchet-faced chap with flexible skin which could be pulled way out from his cheeks, and he gave an exhibition of wriggling his ears. Can you identify him for me?

Another boy is dead and he did not die in Norway, and I now feel no resentment toward him. He was the one who later met me on a Sunday afternoon, roving in Ordway's woods, and proposed to stop me going to church that evening. Dime-novel reading may have been his source of inspiration for a threat to gag me and tie me to a tree. I was innocent enough to take it in all seriousness. I had been chopping some of the wood which Fred Sanborn bought with newspaper subscriptions and used for heating the Advertiser plant, and a stick had hit me over the eye. That was on Saturday, and the blood was settled there. He hit me on that spot, probably as a sort of attempt at terrorism, and my Irish was up. Well, I went to church that evening, blackened eye and all, and the other boy—he was the bigger but had no Irish blood—had to invent a lie about climbing a tree and a limb breaking to account for his bruises and scratches. I was so ashamed of having been fighting that it was a comfort to have the disfigurement attributed to the block of wood. The other boy suffered the worse damage, but his injuries were not conspicuous to the eye—when he was clothed. He had been tripped so that he fell heavily across an old log, severely straining his back and bruising him fearfully, but no bones were broken. That was my only physical fight in twelve years of residence in the good old town of Norway.

Some others who happened along on that well remembered night were Lee Watson, Eugene Warren, Henry Davis, Frank E. Kimball, Tom Thayer, Gardy Boynton, Frank Mayo, and numerous others whom I cannot now recall. I do not place Nixey Drake or Merl Richardson as being present on that momentous occasion, so your recollection is better than mine as to those particular individuals. Jim True was there for a few minutes and offered to bet on the jumping, and he picked the winner, too. But the betting was poor—perhaps on a par with the athletics—and Jim soon moved along.

But I won't be there, so must ask you to extend my hearty good will to any of the boys of that era who may show up. They were "great" as boys, and as men, I don't believe that one of them is eligible for the Weary Club. So, good-night and good luck, with the best wishes of D. Cromett Clark.

Heavy Fish

Story of a Fisherman's Luck and How It Worked Out

Every time I read in the papers, one of those lurid fish tales of Ed Whiting, the Boston Herald's brilliant correspondent who is summering in the Black Hills with Coolidge, I shudder and think how my young life was blighted by trusting, not wisely, but too well to a fish story. Before that, I was a trusting beardless boy, ready to believe anything anybody told me, even that the moon was made of green cheese, and if I wished hard enough, I could get a piece of the rind. I was that optimistic. I used to think that I could make a mountain out of a mole hill and sell the gravel to the highway department.

But, alas, I realize now that if people did not make mistakes, the men who put rubber in the end of lead pencils would be out of a job. But those carefree days are over and I was changed in the twinkling of an eye.

I had a partner at that time who had a face like a Raphael cherub, like the blind horse, it was not his fault but the other fellow's misfortune who trusted him on a fish story.

One day the fishing bee stung him and he longed to go out and devastate the pond. In fact, clean it out, and create a corner in fish. I knew the symptoms and realized that he would not be happy until he got it out of his system, so I gave him my blessing and a small bottle of antidote for snake bites (this was before the Volstead Act.) So he hunted up a boon companion and just as the milkman was making his four o'clock rounds, shook the dust of the burg from his sandals and departed. Along about four P. M. the cavalcade hove in sight on the return trip. They stopped in front of the office to unload their cargo. It was a case of "are the conquering heroes come?" The usual crowd gathered and came tramping into my den. My partner led the procession. He had a large sized newspaper package under his arm. After undoing the wrappers he produced a medium sized fish and asked me, as a special favor, to weigh it for him, saying "they," his companion and himself, had had some dispute about its weight and that I, being honest and trusty, wanted me to weigh the scaly monster. I adjusted the scales, put on a piece of paper, he very tenderly laid the trophy on the scales. Three and a half, four and even five pound weights seemed to have very little effect. When I put the six pound weight on, the scales seemed to show some signs of giving and when I added the half pound weight, down went the beam. I was beginning to think that the hay scales were about what he wanted. When the crowd saw that six pound and a half weight, they gasped and filed out to spread the glad tidings that my partner had captured the big fish of the season and was high liner for the season. The next ten days I told the story over and over again, referring all my questioners to the witnesses who saw me weigh it and who were ready to back my statement to the limit. My partner received the congratulations of the multitude and referred all inquiries to me. The newspapers had it and I answered more questions that Dr. Cadman ever did. And from the humble taxpayer who shunned the publicity of the limelight, I became authority on fish.

My telephone worked overtime, while I answered questions. I was losing weight and temper. After a while the fish story had about run its course and I was settling down to my normal self when I was suddenly reminded that I was not entirely dead.

This was months afterward.

My partner came round to break bread with me one evening and as we sat over our coffee and cigars he suddenly looked up and through a haze of tobacco smoke said, "You remember the fish I caught some time ago? I said, "Oh, yes." He said, "Do you know what made him weigh so much?" I said, "Yes, fat." "No," he said, "shot. ust before I brought him in I poured about 2 1-2 lbs. of shot down his throat." Up to that time I had never been indicted for murder. Not even wanted to assassinate anybody. But one never can tell what a day may bring forth. I have a guney sack, a rock and plenty of rope and some day the world will be startled by seeing big score headlines in all the papers: Mysterious disappearance in high life. Murdered without clue.—John Quill.

Lesson for September 18

THE KINGDOM DIVIDED

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 12:1-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Punishes a Foolish King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Punishes a Foolish King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Folly of Pride.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Prevent Divisions.

The movements leading up to the disruption of the kingdom had begun in Solomon's reign. He saw in Jeroboam the leader of insurrection and endeavored to kill him. Jeroboam fled to Egypt until Solomon's death (I Kings 11:40). Having been informed by the prophet Abijah that he was to have ten tribes over which to rule, as soon as he heard of Solomon's death he returned to be ready to take up his work.

I. The Demand of the People (vv. 1-4).

This was occasioned by the burden of excessive taxation and enforced labor, which was required by Solomon in order to build costly houses and temples for his heathen wives. The people were groaning under its weight. Upon the accession of the new king Rehoboam, the people, through their leader Jeroboam, came with the request that their burdens be made lighter, promising loyalty to him on the condition of lightened burdens.

II. Rehoboam's Foolish Decision (vv. 5-15.)

1. Rehoboam consulted with the old men (vv. 5-7). These were men of experience who had been Solomon's advisers. Being acquainted with the condition as imposed by Solomon, and knowing the temper of the people, they advised that the people's request be granted.

2. Rehoboam consulted the young men (vv. 8-11). These young men had grown up with him, possibly were his half-brothers, sons of Solomon's many wives. Being thus brought up in the luxury of the harem, they were ignorant of the legal right of the people. Therefore they advised that the burdens be increased,

3. Rehoboam followed the advice of the young men (vv. 12-15). At the appointed time he announced his purpose to the people. He even answered them roughly, asserting his purpose to increase their burdens and sorrows. He assumed that it was his right to rule and that it was the people's role to obey regardless of conditions.

III. The Revolt of the Ten Tribes (vv. 16-24).

Upon Rehoboam's announcement of his rash purpose all Israel cried out, "What portion have we in David? . . . to your tents, O Israel."

1. Rehoboam's attempt to collect tribute (vv. 18, 19). As he endeavored to collect tribute from the ten tribes, Adoram, his tribute gatherer, was stoned to death. So violent was the opposition on the part of the people that Rehoboam had to flee to Jerusalem to save his life.

2. Jeroboam made king over Israel (v. 20). They seem to have lost no time in selecting a head so as to be strong in their opposition to Rehoboam.

3. Rehoboam's attempt to compel the ten tribes to return to David (vv. 21-24).

To effect this, he assembled his army of 180,000 men. Through the prophecy of Shemaiah, which forbade them to go against their brethren, they were pursuaded to return.

IV. Jeroboam's Scheme to Unify the Ten Tribes (vv. 25-33).

1. He established calf worship (vv. 31-33).

(1) He built houses and high places (v. 31). This was against the direct command of God. God had directed His people to destroy the high places and to break down the idolatrous centers. So we see that Jeroboam, by the demands of his sinful heart, disobeyed God.

(3) He changed the day of the feast of the Tabernacle (v. 32). The time of this feast was set by the Lord (Lev. 23:33, 34). Jeroboam argued that the change in the time would be better suited to their northern climate, but God, who made the climate, ordained the time of the feast. It was his business, therefore, to obey

(4) Jeroboam himself intrudes into the priest's office. The act of presumption on his part was the climax of his godless acts, all of which grew out of his wicked heart.

EXHIBITION BUILDING

Every space was filled in the Hall, and Charles Bowker, superintendent of the hall, says he never had so many calls for space before and several food dispensers were sent to the automobile display room with their booths.

The display of vegetables and fruit is not as large as usual this year, and Chas. D. Morse of Waterford, who has been in charge of the vegetable department for the past sixteen years, estimated the display about two-thirds the usual size. The late season is responsible. Some extra fine onions, cabbage and cauliflower were shown but tomatoes and some other varieties had not matured as usual. An unusual yield of potatoes, from Green Mountain certified seed, was displayed, a peck shown from one potato.

Charles George was at his usual place with the fruit, and although he is 93 years of age, he is as keen as fifty years ago when he first started judging fruit at the Oxford County fair. His estimate of the quantity and quality of the display this year agreed with the vegetable estimate—about two-thirds of the usual. Apples were not colored as well as usual and grapes and plums were still needing the sun to make them palatable.

The three Granges in competition attracted much attention and occupied the largest spaces. Hebron Grange had trimmings of cedar with the cedar berries, and the name was edged with the same. Tall sunflowers and corn stalks were at the corners and at each post. Here was some fine fancy work, rugs, quilts, a large display of canned goods and home cooked food, grains and grasses, and as Hebron is famous for its apple orchards, there was naturally a large amount of fruit, and one might wonder if the sun shone there more than in some parts of the county, as many of the apples were well colored. The chairmen of the committees included, the Master, Mrs. Emily Conant, chairman of the general committee. A. G. George of the grains and grasses; E. E. Hutchinson of the vegetables; W. G. Conant, fruit; Mrs. Emily Conant, dairy products; Mrs. Hutchinson, cooked food; Elizabeth Davenport, fancy work; Leola Marshall, canned goods.

Paris Grange booth was edged with juniper, and green and orange crepe paper was used to cover the posts. The committee here included the master and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Millett and the officers of the Grange for the general committees. E. B. Curtis was chairman of the vegetables; E. A. Barker of the fruit; F. I. Cummings, grasses and grains; Mrs. Gertrude Twitchell, knit goods; Mrs. Rose Brooks, rugs and quilts; Mrs. Dora Tyler, dairy products; Mrs. Wilma Stearns, flowers; Mrs. H. A. Barker, cooked food; Mrs. Annie Cummings, canned goods; Mrs. Helene Babcock, fancy work. The display was attractively arranged, and included some fine fancy work and knit goods, and in fact, each committee did themselves proud as there was a fine assortment from each one.

Frederick Robie Grange of Otisfield used cedar and sprays of oats for decorations, with tall sun flowers and corn stalks at the corners. There was the usual assortment of fancy work, rugs, quilts, fruit, flowers, vegetables, grains and grasses, cooked food, canned goods, etc., and a strawberry plant bearing blossoms and fruit, with celery, in boxes, etc., all arranged attractively. The committees included, Ralph Merrill for the fruit; Willard Brett, vegetables; Mrs. Myrtle Merrill, dairy products; Mrs. Edith Martin, cooked food; Mrs. Bessie Annis, fancy work; Roy Lapham, grains and grasses; Mrs. Ina Wilkie, canned goods. There was close competition in these exhibits, each vieing with the other to carry off the chief prize.

Cressey & Allen of Portland occupied the center space in the lower hall, opposite the main door, and they had musical instruments and sheet music and records. A beautiful orthophonic, carrying fifteen records and operated by electricity with an electrical "pick-up" produced fine music.

R. P. Skeetop occupied his usual space for the display of sweet grass and willow baskets, plant stands, hanging pots, etc. This is his 24th year at the Oxford County Fair, and he always has a large trade. Charles D. Moses, of Portland, for seven or eight years an exhibitor here, speaks a very pleasant word for the people whom he finds very cordial and Norway and Paris came in for a share of compliments in the way they use their exhibitors at the Fair. He carries a large line of novelties to suit every pocket-book.

Mrs. Guy Swett of South Paris had a large display of canned goods, about 80 in all, fruit and vegetables, jelly, jams, etc.

L. M. Longley & Sons of Norway occupy a double booth, one side displaying gas stoves, lamps and lanterns, and the other cutlery and a unique sharpener.

Frank H. Beck of Norway has a beautiful display of flowers, 2,000 "glads" and a thousand dahlias, and also asters and some other blossoms, all from his gardens. He also had a display of house plants, of the unusual varieties, tuberous rooted begonias among them, and a double pink petunia, in full bloom.

The Hazzard Shoe Company of Gardiner and Waterville showed a handsome line of early fall styles in footwear, for both men and women and a new line of lady's rubber footwear.

The Maytag Electric Washer showed how washing could be made easy and with the use of Lux, clothes came out white and spotless.

Among those who exhibited dairy products were Mrs. F. A. Littlehale of West Paris, fancy butter and a five pound special display; Mrs. W. B. Decester, South Paris, and Mrs. A. Foster Jackson, Oxford, all fine looking butter, in both fancy moulds and the regulation pounds. Mrs. Mellie Dunham and Mrs. George W. Richardson were the only competitors for cheese honors. There was a small display of cooked food, white and brown bread and a prettily decorated cake making up the assortment. Honey, maple syrup and maple sugar were also shown in small quantities.

George W. Emmons of West Paris had a fine display of flowers from his gardens, these including gladiolus, dahlias, asters, phlox. He had a large variety of vegetables, also.

W. J. Wheeler & Co., of South Paris, who have exhibited for many years, had pianos, piano players, and the Edison and dispensed fine music.

The Red Feather Farm, Harry M. Goodwin, Norway, provided a rest room with comfortable chairs, the daily paper, and a large bowl of flowers on the center table was attractive. Pictures of the poultry plant showed what he is doing with his famous single comb R. I. Reds.

D. H. Grandin Millings Company with I. F. Blaisdell of Auburn in charge, showed all kinds of feed for the poultry and dairy. They had pictures of many farms, where their feed was being used.

The Wirthmore Feed, for dairy and poultry, occupied a booth on the street side and their window was decorated with a crepe paper curtain, and a vase of flowers was attractive. They are one of the largest concerns in the country.

E. Ray Frost of South Paris had an attractive booth showing bird houses, rose arches, yard and garden decorations, all of which are made by Mr. Frost. Mrs. Frost was in charge and explained the habits of many of the birds and the kinds of houses they prefer.

The housewife was shown a new pie crimper which decorates the pies and cookies, etc.

Rumford Bottling Company products were dispensed in a booth presided over by Mrs. Alice Wiggin of South Paris,

Rice occupied her usual place near the side door and had novelties not of the usual order. John W. Leach from Old Orchard has novelty jewelry and did engraving as fast as purchases were made. He is the originator of electrical engraving and he cuts an inscription into a gold watch with the ease of writing with a pencil.

In the Upper Hall, the center space was occupied by R. C. Dunham's radio shop, and showed everything for the radio. Sooony products, occupied the other half of the space between the stairways and showed a new grey line of oil stoves, also many specialties and a fine line of fancy candles.

At the head of the stairs, the housewife was shown a device for decorating the cake in quick time, and roses and other designs could be made easy with a little practice.

Then there was a device for threading the machine needle, and no glasses were needed to use it.

The Wander-In Gift Shop, operated by Mrs. Harriett Barnes of South Paris, showed everything for a gift, and many attractive novelties. Mottoes, candles, cards, vases, and a thousand other things.

Irving Wheeler of South Paris had a display of doll's furniture and although crippled, the lad had used his hands and a jack-knife to good advantage and he has made all kinds of household furniture for the small child's doll.

Mrs. A. O. Slippe of South Portland was displaying a booth of very pretty and odd gifts and souvenirs including hand painted articles and lustre ware.

C. G. Wood of Medford, Mass., was demonstrating a new method of embroidery in the punch knot work.

Caswell's famous kisses from Old Orchard were on sale and everyone knows Caswell, who has a large store on the Pier.

Mrs. Caswell was demonstrating the Nu-Art Solution, whereby designs from wall paper were transferred to handkerchiefs, scarfs, runners, etc.

Rus-Fis-Eli, the new relief for indigestion, was sold by a Portland company by that name. It is a Maine product and is claimed to "do the trick."

Graham's Cleanser for shoes, gloves and clothing was demonstrated and there is no excuse for any soiled collars or shoes.

The fancy work display covered one whole side and a portion of the back of the hall, and the handiwork of the women was shown to advantage in embroidery, of every kind; hand painted china, pictures, pencil and charcoal drawings, etc. Some very pretty sofa pillows received much comment. The display was smaller than for some years past, owing to misunderstanding as to the time the entries closed. Notice was given through the newspapers that all entries would close Sept. 6, several days earlier than usual, but a great many did not see the notice and carried articles Monday, which was too late. There were many rugs and quilts and many new patterns were noted. Among the paintings in oil was one of Mellie Dunham, as life-like as possible. Among the articles in the crochet and tatting display were two large bed spreads that showed much time and patience.

The children's display of needlework and art was very fine indeed and showed the children are being taught worth while things. A girl of fourteen years showed a large butterfly tray that was well and artistically done. Stanley Pratt of So. Paris showed a fine collection of minerals. Stanley I. Perham of West Paris showed a large collection of minerals. George I. Conant of Hebron exhibited a collection of apples, packed in commercial boxes, nine of them, that were colored well, and were of good size, better than the average of this year.

The Norway Nursing Service had a unique exhibit. There were two houses so decorated as to depict suitable foods and their effect on health on one hand, and on the other, unsuitable foods and their result. One was covered with graham crackers and oatmeal and vegetables were growing in the garden outside. The portals at the entrance to the grounds were potatoes and prunes. The other house had a frosted roof decorated with candy, while frankforts at the doorway served as decoration, and the portals were bananas. One could read a lesson easily. This was arranged by Miss Belle C. Davis, the community nurse, and was very clever. Her aim was to show to some extent what the local nursing service offers Norway.

The Boys' and Girls' Club work was very attractive and showed what the boys and girls have been doing with their time during summer vacation. Canning and sewing were shown by the girls, and vegetables by the boys. Donald Ridley, Oxford County Farm Bureau Agent, and Miss Effie Bradeen, Home Demonstration Agent, have worked hard for results. Mrs. Edith Knightly, in charge of the Center club work assisted materially. Edward H. Brown, club leader of Norway, has a special exhibit from his boys.

Child Health Conference

Baby-Land attracted much attention and babies each day were given attention. There were forty-six babies the first day, that were weighed and measured and given examination. Mrs. Jennie B. Hyde, Field Nurse for Oxford County, State Department of Health, was in charge, and was assisted by Miss Frances Nason and Mrs. Doris Knox of the State Health Department, and also Miss Belle C. Davis, Norway Community Nurse. The services of local physicians were also enlisted. A small room was set apart in the rest room, where one baby at a time was given examination. A small house exhibited the model nursery, showing correct furniture for the baby's comfort, and foods and care. Much credit is given Miss Soule of the State Department of Health for the arrangement for the conference.

Officials at the box office were Harvey Powers, Thomas S. Barnes and Eugene Lowell. At the small office were Merritt Welch and Urshal Gammon. On the gates were Sam Davis, Thomas Clegg, Fred E. Davis and Bert Eyerson. The upper gate across the track was handled by D. P. Lapham, Wesley Carpenter and Elmer Shortridge. At th lower gate Fred Lafrance was on duty. Fred F...rnes and Don Chapman looked after the grand stand. Albert Towne was in charge of traffic within the circle and parked autos. His assistants were A. L. Wyman, George Young, C. Lowell Barnes, W. S. Ames and Melvin Smith. At headquarters, Frank S. Clark was assistant, the clerks were Mrs. Sara Parlin and Miss Ruth Bolster.

Historical Pageant

History of Oxford County Presented in Scenes—Large Crowds Attracted to the Grounds Both Evenings

For the first time in the history of the Society, a pageant was enacted Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, representing among other scenes, happenings during the settlement of Oxford County, particularly in the town of Paris.

The outdoor stage was located opposite the large grandstand near the track, with a scenic background, which served as an amplifier. Spot lights furnished illumination. The main entrance was an arch in rear center with several wings on both sides, altogether a good representation of a theatre setting in ancient Greece. There were speaking parts, dances, brilliant ensembles and tableaux, not only openly depicting real historical events but suggesting in allegory much of interest to lovers of the beautiful. The musical score was played by the band and by the piano with violin accompaniment.

This production used 300 men, women and children, from Norway, South Paris, West Paris and Oxford. Beautiful modern costumes were shown alongside gowns, waist coats, beaver hats and other garments brought from attics and treasure chests. Many articles of wearing apparel are known to be nearly two centuries old.

The pageant was presented in six episodes with an introduction and finale. Opening with the trumpeters and Miss Oxford County to greet Miss Columbia and her forty-eight states, the story plunges into the early life of the Red Men. After this, came the white settlers and their trials in subduing the primitive forest. The Indian battle scene; the first church and school; an early marriage ceremony, closing with Virginia reel were made very real.

During this part some eleven scenes were enacted, requiring 200 characters who formed twenty-four groups.

The final scene showed the "Melting Pot of the Nation." Over 300 characters were brought into this picture at one time and a symbolic dance of every nation was presented. The finale included the great whirlpool, all nations amalgamated into one, our United States of America.

The pageant was staged and rehearsed by George Limerick, representing the John B. Rogers Producing Co., of Ohio, who furnished costumes, scenery and lighting effects. Local assistants were Harold A. Anderson, Mrs. Mary Bicknell, Norway; Mrs. Helen Shaw, W. O. Frothingham, South Paris; Rev. Ernest H. Carrett, Oxford.

Several thousand people witnessed the performance each evening and have spoken highly of an entertainment that has been in rehearsal a comparatively short time.

Early Preparations for the Fair

Getting ready for the 85th annual exhibition of the Oxford County Agricultural Society commenced in mid-summer and continued right up to the opening day.

Carpenters, painters and general repair men labored the past two months painting the large grand stand and fences; putting the judges' stand on a firm foundation and finishing off rooms under the vaudeville stage to make comfortable quarters for performers and concession people. Minor damages to fences and buildings have been repaired and considerable work was done on the track to keep it in the best possible condition for some fifty horses working out during the summer.

The fair commenced to shape up early as Friday. Horses and cattle arrived from the State fair and elsewhere along with the midway contingent. Pres. L. E. McIntire and Frank E. DeCoster with measuring tape assigned space on the fun trail, while vice-Pres. A. W. Weston, Arthur Hayes and Loten Gould looked after placing exhibits in the cattle department. Ernest Nason was over in the horse department assigning stable quarters. Charles Bowker, Supt. of the hall, made an early start Saturday and kept up the pace to the end of the show. Real work in the hall commenced Monday with a rush that indicated a large exhibit there.

"Pop" Foster, the veteran lunch man arrived early with his force and pitched his tent on the bit of real estate he has occupied the past forty summers. Bill Kerrigan of Portland, a regular one for many years, also put in his appearance Friday and quickly had his canvas store ready for customers wanting soft drinks, fruits, lunches and smokes.

Anderson & Hall's California Shows arrived on trucks and covered a large section of the amusement plot. Their side shows and rides soon turned the place into a miniature village. James York, formerly of Norway, but for some years a prosperous carnival man, joined the show and put up his popular chair Plane at the head of the mid-way.

The boys of the Central Maine Power Co. were on the job early. After putting the lighting system into operation on the grounds, they went after the shows and booths. Most of those places were soon connected for lights, many carried brilliantly illuminated fronts for the evening performances.

Practically all space in the cattle department was taken before Saturday and a large tent top was spread over the space between the main cattle sheds. Under this protection was quartered the stock that arrived after "standing room only" sign was posted.

Everything was quiet and orderly on Sunday night with many people roaming the grounds in the afternoon. The evening was unusually sedate. Compared with noisy demonstrations within the memory of people now living, this year's Sunday "night before" will go for a record of decorum and decency.

The decorator who dresses up the buildings with flags and bunting, started his work Saturday and before night had the grounds in holiday attire. This work was done on a large scale and went far to enthus that care-free-attitude which makes a fair a booming success.

The racing stables were all but full Sunday. Not far from seventy-five horses were in comfortable quarters in the long line of sheds Sunday night. Electric lights in front of the doors at the stable were appreciated by members of the fraternity who assembled in groups to chat and talk shop before hitting the hay. One old timer explaining this fraternal feeling said, "Off the track all are close friends, but while racing each is out there to get his, and friendships cease for the time being. After the races we are again good pals." He continued, "Once in a while we go up against a dirty one on the track. You bet he is not popular in our crowd and finds a cool crowd after work hours."

Pour hot water over onions, allow them to remain for a few minutes, then drain and pour cold water over them. Then the skins can be removed easily.

Are You Really Well?

For Good Health There Must Be Proper Kidney Action.

Do you find yourself running down—always tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and achy, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions scanty and burning in passage? Know then that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Picked Up Here and There

Tuesday was "Young America's Day" with all children in the grades admitted free during the day and evening. As guests of the Society they certainly appreciated the kindness and were a well behaved bunch. Several hundred were on hand, before noon and made things hum along the midway. They spent money freely in that quarter, keeping shows and rides going that often times do nothing the first day. On the grand stand they applauded the vaudeville and races, showing they appreciated good sport and knew a whole lot about the game.

Crowd Tuesday is estimated at 4,000. Competent judges believe the evening attendance far exceeded that number. Anyway double the number of cars were parked inside the grounds at night according to the traffic officials.

The pageant Tuesday night was long drawn out in spite of cutting the vaudeville program that preceded it. Naturally everything was new for only one complete rehearsal had been held on the outdoor stage. The next presentation went with more pep as some 300 actors fell into the spirit of the production.

E. H. Fellows and his ferris wheel was part of the California Shows this year. The outfit lacked rides so the veteran was called from New Hampshire to fill the gap. For twenty years the E. H. Fellows Amusement Co., was about the whole show at this fair until last season when Lapps Carnival Co., was substituted and the familiar outfits went elsewhere. Mr. Fellows is in poor health, having been laid up most of the summer, but is laying plans for a campaign with fairs next season. Mrs. Fellows sold tickets for rides during the fair.

Thomas E. Stanton of Fall River, Mass., captured the youngsters with "Walking Charlie," a mechanical device for attracting baseball artists. Throwing baseballs at hats and tin cans perched on the heads of dummies representing Hooligan, Andy Gump and other notables of the comics, proved a moneygetter. The mechanical oddity is some four years old but this was its first appearance in this part of Maine. Mr. Stanton came here from Riverton Park, Portland, where he was located the past summer. He is not a fakir by profession for his business is teaching stage dancing and producing amateur shows, incidentally doing a stepping in professional vaudeville. Fair chasing is for vacation purposes.

George Tripp of Norway parked his street manicuring apparatus and atended the fair. He could be found most of the time under the grand stand, keeping company with the few coops of poultry. "I like to be where the good looking chickens are," George told his friends.

Persons who visited the fair for the first time in several years made favorable comment on the improved appearance of the buildings. And those who had grandstand seats admired the artistic piece of landscape gardening at the entrance to the judges' stand.

It is estimated 42,000 attended the show during three days. About 6,000 were there the first and last, while nearly 30,000 passed through the gates the middle day.

The exhibit of S. C. Rhode Island Reds owned by D. W. Goodwin & Son, Norway, was an attraction along with the Red Feather Farm display under the grand stand. There were some fine birds quartered in an attractive pen that caught the eye of many visitors.

Women smoking cigarettes is not uncommon, but a pair strolling along the midway Thursday, drawing on "fags" is a new one to the writer. He has chalked this event down as his first experience at the fair with the modern midway girl in her smoke screen flight.

Norway defeated West Paris in a game of baseball Thursday forenoon. No great excitement developed but a fair sized crowd gathered around the diamond. Score was 9 to 2.

A lighted cigar butt tossed from the back of the grand stand, Wednesday, set fire to the top of a new Essex coach. A hole nearly a foot in diameter was burned clean through before the fire was put out.

Every reserved set and box in the stand was sold long before Wednesday noon. Soon after the races started not a seat in the "grab" sections was available. Many stood for some time, others were turned away, when the point of saturation was reached.

Automobile Exhibit

New Models Looked Over by the Crowd

The auto building was the Mecca for hundreds of people looking for 1928 models. The cars were there and many nifty looking models were in place and their strong points demonstrated by agents.

O. K. Clifford Co., Inc., South Paris had Dodge Bros. fours, the Deluxe sedan, special sedan the four door Six Sedan and the new 6 two ton truck. William McDaniels was demonstrator in charge.

Norway Buick Co., had a large display showing model 51 Broughm, No. 20 two door sedan; No. 475 Sport Sedan; No. 47, five passenger sedan and No. 55, Sport Roadster. Alan Miller, salesman of the northern district and Harvey Pitts of the western, were in charge.

Paris Motor Mart, Alton C. Maxim, South Paris, was on hand with Chevrolet Sedans, coaches and trucks, also the Chrysler Sedan and coach.

The W. F. Knight Co., Norway, had Studebakers, including the five passenger Phaeton; the five passenger Commodore; five passenger Dictator; the Erskine Sedan, five passenger and Victoria for passenger. Odell Rich was the chap who met people and talked about the cars.

Harmon of Portland had two models of Marmon 8.

Portland Nash Co. of Lewiston was represented by Guy Trask of Norway. There were the Standard two door Sedan; Special two passenger cope; the Ambassador and advanced 6 Sedan.

Annual Meeting

Leslie E. McIntire Re-Elected President
L. H. Cushman Elected Trustee

Some thirty attended the annual meeting in the trustees' room, Thursday afternoon. It required not over ten minutes to elect four officials.

Leslie E. McIntire succeeded himself as president, one vote being cast by the secretary. William O. Frothingham was re-elected secretary and treasurer, Stanley M. Wheeler was elected a trustee and L. H. Cushman succeeded Trustee Perley F. Ripley, who declined re-election, being unable to continue in that office.

Officers for 1927-28 are as follows.
Pres.—L. E. McIntire, East Waterford.
Vice Pres.—A. W. Weston, Bolster's Mills.
Sec'y.-Treas.—W. O. Frothingham, South Paris.
Trustees—C. W. Bowker, South Paris; Arthur G. Hayes, Oxford; W. E. Penley, West Paris; Stanley M. Wheeler, South Paris; L. H Cushman, Norway.

"Wednesday was the largest day we ever had," said Secretary William O. Frothingham. "Not far from 30,000 people were on the grounds during the day and our night attendance exceeded previous years by a good marking."

Keeping autos off the midway was appreciated by showmen and everybody. Police on the job for that purpose had a merry time convincing drivers that the trails were not even one way streets. Rope barriers came into use for a gentle hint.

Pulling and Drawing

Somehow events around the pulling ring failed to arouse great enthusiasm. A fair sized crowd patronized the stand but a much larger number hung on the fences, so altogether quite a gallery watched some interesting contests.

Drawing horses in pairs occupied the time allowed in the forenoon with the following results:

Horses 2800 and Under
Daniel Hill, West Paris (2740) 346 ft.
A. B. Grover, Welchville (2590) 265 ft.

Vaudeville

Plenty of Thrills—The Modern Sampson and the Clever Cyclists

Patrons of the grand stand and hundreds gathered around the judges' stand found plenty of thrills in the free vaudeville furnished by Wirth & Hamid Co., of New York in charge of Michael Cahill.

Levasseur, the modern Samson performed several astonishing stunts including a back lift and tug of war against horses and oxen. Tuesday afternoon he easily raised a ton and one half of humanity standing on a platform. Heavier loads were raised during the engagement. Levasseur has been featured with Ringling's circus and his record was two tons of elephant flesh. In the tug-of-war he held the horses and oxen and finished his act by allowing a heavy auto to pass over his body.

Leo and Mary Jackson, sensational cyclist performed seemingly impossible stunts. Riding in all sorts of positions, waltzing and the hind wheel and making the bikes do all kinds of crazy stunts, looked extremely easy for them. This act is world-toured on some of the best circuits.

Cahill, on a single trapeze and the rope cloud swing made the shivers start in many of his slips and catches.

The three Valliers, comprising two men, a woman and two dogs entertained with acrobatics and comedy falls. This was a novelty nmber.

Another comedy act was Goodie & Mack Co. Two men worked in knockabout hits, bumps and falls, while a woman walked an iron bar, similiar to a tight rope. They have appeared in the New York Hippodrome and have been on Keith's time.

CATTLE DEPARTMENT

Everything was pretty well filled in this department with a large tent between the row of sheds to accommodate the overflow.

A nice line of purebred Brown Swiss Cattle was shown by C. A. Flint of Lakeridge Farm.

A. D. Cummings, South Paris had a nice display of Holsteins from Sunnymead Farm on Fore Street, Oxford. They never have failed to capture blue ribbons and this year is no exception. Mr. Cummings was on hand during the fair to show the good points brought out in his herd.

Another nice display of Holsteins was offered by L. E. McIntire & Son, proprietors of "Greenfields" at East Waterford. The stock was the kind that wins premiums and a choice lot.

Carroll R. King, South Paris, brought to the attention of folks his herd of Jerseys from Streaked Mountain Farm. The animals are representatives of the breed and a clean cut lot.

There was a large display of the beef breeds especially noticeable was the Aberdeen-Angus cattle exhibited by the Jefferson Farms, Jefferson, Me. Steers and oxen occupied a large part of the shed room and were a nice sleek lot. Many appeared in the pulling ring and made good showing. E. E. Field & Son, Greene, had a nice herd of Ayrshires that was good to look at.

Swine appeared in larger numbers than in past years. B. A. Turner, Leeds, had five pens showing one boar weighing 785 pounds, sows, and litters of the spotted Poland China breed. River Basin Farm, Portland, showed Poland China boar, hogs and a litter, using three pens. D. A. Delano, Norway, exhibited a pig with a young litter.

Hampshire sheep in two pens were from the farm of A. L. Sturtevant, Buckfield. There were ewe lambs, yearling, two-year olds, and a yearling buck.

Two flocks of sheep from Long Branch Farm, Bowdoinham, attracted attention. They were selected from a flock of several hundred raised on the broad acres.

That Glorious Mid-Way

Appeasing the Appetite—Quenching the Thirst—Being Amused

Appeasing the appetite, quenching the thirst and feeding the desire to be amused or buncoed, had their lay-outs on two midways.

Feeding the hungry was the business of the Ladies' Circle of the Norway Congregational church. Dinners were served on three days, in their well known building with Mrs. John F. Swain in charge of a large corps of helpers. Baked beans, salads and pastry were principle items on the menu. They did capacity business on Wednesday and gathered in several hundred dollars.

The Twitchell House, carried on by the family down to the third generation was popular as in past years. Roast beef, potatoes, green corn, puddings and pies were some of the good things served for dinners each day. Some idea of the patronage Wednesday is registered in one hundred pounds of beef and one hundred loaves of bread were served.

Bill Twitchell's place also caught a large patronage with everybody hustling for dear ife.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Westleigh in their new dining hall, "The Pines of Maine," had big trade, then some more. This new setting is located on the spot where Alvin Lovejoy catered for many years and known far and wide, especially by horsemen who made the place their eating headquarters in the old days.

Ralph W. Richardson, Norway, had a booth where hot dogs, coffee, doughnuts and other eatables were served.

C. N. Richardson, South Paris, catered with "doggies" and lunches.

The Paris Methodist church served lunches on the mid-way and had a good run of business. Well, eating and refreshment places were tucked in anywhere. Hot dogs, hambergers, sandwiches, ice cream, soft drinks, peanuts and pop corn predominated. It was all a matter of taste what to patronize. Many places were neat and attractive with the food temptingly displayed, which is more than can be said of others that caused weak stomachs to kick over the traces.

Games displaying a thousand different articles loomed on all sides. Toss 'em in, throw a dart, knock down babies, milk bottles or kittens was another matter of taste. "Walking Charley" replaced the living African Dodger and many balls were hurled at the hats and cans on the moving figures. Looked easy but not all shots hit the mark. The American Legion "beano" game proved the most fascinating cross word puzzle on the grounds. Crowds handled the beans from morn until late into the evening. The boys cleaned up a bit of metal to push along a good cause.

This year patrons of the weight guessing man had a cinch and seldom failed to carry away a box of chocolates. At one time the operator truthfully said, "I couldn't guess the weight of a pound of cheese."

John Dorsey, Worcester, Mass., had his snakes as in the past sixteen years. He passed out to the afflicted many cans of mineral salts and this section should jump to the perfect health work for a long stay. The female palmist had the same old story for a new crop tasting the sweets of wild life at the fair. The tin type operators captured the usual number of blooming youths and maidens. Some of the posing was stolen from a movie close-up and quite effective.

Bowling was popular with Edwin Gammon and son Edwin catering to the ten pin instinct. This alley had good business as the proprietor kept the crowd with a method all his own.

The check room in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dudley was a convenience but not patronized as in days before the advent of automobiles. There has been a steady decline in receipts, for wraps and bundles are now locked in autos and only the few not possessing gas propelled vehicles need the help of this department.

Old and young enjoyed the caterpillar, merry-go-round, chair-plane and ferris wheel. For mechanical shows, "Fun on the Farm," was a scream and attracted many to the hay mow which was the beginning of a series of surprises, ending at the exit on the ground floor. Several side shows exhibited illusions, animal freaks, wrestling, magic and Punch and Judy.

Madam LaBlanch, so called on the painting, appeared as a female Samson, a la style of a Greek Goddess or a Nero. She lifted a dozen men standing on a platform and told the folks her great strength was known over the wide world. With her show were two young females, clad in garments befitting the tribes of Africa. They danced the black bottom and Can Can to sounds produced by a boy musician on a uke.

Speed Palmer in his mad motorcycle dash around a wooden bowl was a good business getter during the middle day.

Some parasite has subdued the "wild men" who infested our midway for thirty years. Their snake eating functions are over until generations appear that know not the "monsters" who made their annual escape down the mid-way.

Toy balloons for the kiddies and high strikers for strong arm-men were out in force. Both are favorites and have withstood the cry for novelties. Balloon venders were stationed on every corner and the heavy mallet game thrived at half a dozen different places.

Not exactly the weather to stock up on winter vegetables, but Harry Isaacson of Auburn sold mens' reefers and heavy garments. Near his stand was a blanket vender, all reminders of a cold day coming bye and bye.

The monkey working for an organ grinder was the best coin getter on the grounds. The music couldn't pass the fritters, but that nimble monkey was the whole show and reaped a harvest.

POULTRY DEPARTMENT

Not so many birds were shown as in former years but on the whole the quality was above the average. Harry A. Lovejoy was in charge of this exhibit with Ernest Crockett of South Paris the judge.

Lord's Farm, North Waterford, was one of the largest exhibitors and specialized with Dorcas White Wyandottes. The birds were well displayed and proved a nice lot. Merton Lake, Welchville, also showed many of this breed. Frank A. Baker, Welchville, had a large display and Raymond Kilgore, Norway, showed several nice specimens.

C. Guy Buck, South Paris, was on hand with Light Brahmas and S. C. Reds.

Rev. Robert A. Clark, Fryeburg, was another large exhibitor with a nice showing of S. C. Leghorns, numbering about thirty birds. He had an attractive display of R. C. Reds and White Holland turkeys.

Others to show Rhode Island Reds were Kenneth Aldrich, Norway, LaurenceThurlow, Norway, N. L. Sturtevant, Buckfield and Merton M. Lake, Welchville.

Erlon Emerson, Norway, had Muscovy Ducks.

Two special displays were offered by the Red Feather farm of Norway, Harry Goodwin, prop. The pens were attractively decorated and contained some of their best stock raised on the farm.

Proof Enough

"The wicked stand in slippery places."

"How do you know they are wicked?"

"By the language they use when they slip."

SOUTH WATERFORD

Mrs. Charlotte M. Nelson

The death of Mrs. Charlotte M. Nelson, wife of Eugene Nelson of South Waterford, occurred Wednesday evening about ten o'clock. Although Mrs. Nelson had not been in her usual health since last spring, and met with an accident in the early summer, breaking her collar bone, her passing comes as a distinct shock to a wide circle of friends. She had been confined to her bed for the past month with trouble with her knee and she had failed rapidly during the last week.

Mrs. Nelson was a native of Boston, the daughter of Albert and Charlotte Morse Stanwood, born February 2, 1852. Her father was for many years superintendent of the Boston Water Works and during the Civil War he retired and came to South Waterford and lived on Stanwood Hill the remainder of his days.

Mrs. Nelson was the oldest of a family of six daughters and one son, and she was twelve years of age when the family moved to Maine. She was a musician of no mean ability and all through the years she had enjoyed her piano and kept up her practice to the last.

She was united in marriage with Eugene Nelson in October, 1871, and to this union five children were born. The passing of the mother is the first break in the family circle. She had kept young with her children, and their friends were her friends, and she was the life of any gathering where she was present.

Six years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Nelson belonged to no fraternal organization, but has devoted her life to her family, and had lived to see them all settled in homes of their own and all but one was present at the time of her passing. They are Albert E. Nelson of East Stoneham, Edward C., of Helena, Arkansas: Ethel, wife of Ernest C. Brackett of West Medford, Mass.; Bertha, wife of Steward C. Parker, and Charles M., both of South Waterford. The son from Arkansas was on his way home and arrived Thursday evening. Mrs. Nelson leaves besides the husband and five children, two sisters, Mrs. Florence S. Noble of Detroit, who was on her way east, and Mrs. Alice Bell of South Waterford.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 P. M., from the home.
